Tips for Multiple Piercings

1. Talk with your customer to understand their vision:
   - Do they want multiple piercings on one ear or both?
   - What sorts of earrings do they plan to wear?
2. Remember that every ear is unique. Examine your customer's ears carefully to determine whether they have enough soft tissue on the lobe to fit the piercings they want.
3. Space the new piercings properly. There should be at least ¼" between piercing holes, but spacing is unique for everyone. The hole location and spacing will be determined by the size of the ears and the preferred earring style.
4. Take your time and review the locations dots carefully before the piercing. This is an important step, so don't rush! After dotting, give your customer the mirror to make sure the dots right. If not, simply clean them off and dot again!
