ID	10528254907822	Proceeding	OET 19-226
Names of Filers	Elizabeth Andrews,Rose McCarthy,Christine McCarthy,Joseph McCarthy
Type of Filing	COMMENT	Filing Status	DISSEMINATED
Viewing Status	Unrestricted
Date Received	May 27, 2020	Date Posted	May 28, 2020
Address	2240 Encinitas Blvd. D-407	City	Encinitas
		State	CA
		ZIP	92024

Brief Comment

The FCC's repeated refusal to consider biological effects from exposure to all types of wireless radiation shows a clear and dangerous intention to disregard the emerging science which must inform its decisions regarding public health. The agency's reliance on organizations of physicists and engineers for advice on human exposures has resulted in a sole focus on "thermal" effects, despite thousands of published, peer-reviewed studies showing biological harm, even at non-thermal levels, for various frequency ranges. The FCC's own admission that it is unaware of any other types of effects demonstrates a failure to actively investigate the issue by proactively engaging with the scientific community studying the short and long-term biological impacts of exposure to humans and possible interference with systems of the natural world. Failure to seek out and consider the latest science makes decisions of the FCC suspect. Moreover, the complex comment process used by the FCC virtually ensures that most commenters will be those who follow the activities of the agency closely and have a financial interest in the agency's decisions.

In my own experience I have seen damage to plants, birds and bees when subjected to different frequencies and I have had 2 friends die from cancer directly related to wireless radiation exposure.

It's unconscionable to not have scientific studies regarding this technology that is already affecting all living beings on our planet. The fact that our government allows the telecommunication industry to install devices that will affect every living thing in the vicinity is absolutely unacceptable and irresponsible. As a taxpayer, and a citizen, I am asking you to do more on behalf of all of us. Many people are simply not aware of the dangers of the newer technologies and I believe the telecommunications industry is taking advantage of that ignorance by quickly putting up equipment without having any safety studies. We have GOT to be better stewards of our earth and our citizens and we must step up for the health and safety of all living creatures, including ourselves. Please, please stop the insanity now. Its just not worth our supposed convenience to damage the health of ourselves and the creatures around us. Nobody who understands this technology wants it, other than the people who run the telecom lobbies and industry.