Hello,

Since 2020 I have suffered from bruxism, right after the installation of the smart meters. Repairing the damage caused by bruxism from 2020 to today will cost me around €10,000.

Since 2021, due to the rollout and greater coverage of 3G/4G technology, I have had to stop working because of back pain, losing my income and having to find other jobs.

In 2016, because of the radio frequencies from the cell towers and the mobile phones of the other residents in my building, I constantly had a foggy head, back pain, dizziness, sadness, depression, insomnia, and I subsequently had to spend €12,000 to improve my resting environment, which improved things immediately.

For several years now I have not been able to eat freely. Radio frequencies sensitize me to various foods, which cause or worsen pain in my fingers and joints, brain fog, difficult thinking, excessive tiredness, blood pressure swings, arrhythmias, bigeminal and trigeminal beats, and tachycardia.

To improve things I have had to buy protective shielding clothing and other technologies, and whenever possible I have to try to change location often.

If I go to crowded places I have to ask people the courtesy of disabling all radio-frequency modes on their phones and switching to airplane mode. They often pretend to do it.

After a few minutes or a few hours (depending on the number of active WiFis near the place where I sleep), wireless gives me a painful weight on my chest, tiredness, a foggy head, and a lack of imagination and creativity.

Some certifying doctors, because of their condition — often like ours — are far behind with the certifications of very many of us sick people who have been waiting for years.

Bioresonance and other frequency treatments lose effectiveness within 3 hours of returning to one's home.

Alternative techniques such as massages, Tibetan bowls, hydrocolon therapy, etc. give relief that at most does not last more than 4–5 days.

In various subjects, we have seen that exposure symptoms manifest in the 6–8 hours following exposure and reappear even after 21 hours for a duration of 3 hours, and after 45 hours for a further duration of 3 hours.

Medicines worsen the situation; vitamin drips, on the other hand, help to improve things but last very little.

Vitamin C 35 g (sodium ascorbate intravenously) makes all symptoms disappear after 21 hours for a duration of 48 hours.

Methylcobalamin (methylated B12) allows the symptoms to be cancelled after 21 hours for a duration of 3 hours.

All supplementation, by the very fact of living in an electromagnetic environment, seems not to reach deep into the body.

The sensations of electrosensitivity tend to fade after 3 days of dry fasting.

Prolonged water fasting with zeolite results in greatly desensitizing one from the unpleasant perception and the symptoms of EHS.

It is absolutely necessary to evaluate solutions on multiple fronts:

- Study and monitor Holter EEG, ECG, blood pressure Holter, polysomnogram, blood glucose/insulin Holter on healthy subjects and on EHS subjects both in a "normally electromagnetic" environment, for example their home environment, and inside a sleep box in which artificial magnetic fields are shielded with vertical partitions in every direction — north, south, east, west — at least 3 mm of raw iron.

- Evaluate and study the possibility of using repeaters that exploit the Lenz and Faraday–Neumann laws to communicate while also emitting a counter-wave that cancels out the electromagnetic field by mathematical summation;

- oblige telephone companies to install much more sensitive antennas in smartphones in order to reduce the emissions of the repeaters;

- repeaters that exploit the Lenz and Helmholtz laws according to the principles of Florian Konig Enterprise GmbH so as not to emit scalar fields together with the electromagnetic fields; the company has done important studies at a German university;

- governments should give electrosensitive people, at their own expense, vouchers redeemable for going to white zones and for buying shielding clothing, or clothing that protects through the Lenz and Faraday–Neumann laws, like those from Full-Point Bioriposo;

- oblige all apartment buildings, public places, shops, etc. to hardwire everything and to monitor and remove all unnecessary WiFis.

Nobody has something as “electromagnetic immunity”. Cancer, lymphomas, leukemia are growing. Remember all this!
