The UCSD Researcher who became world renowned for pioneering the link between "The Diplomat's Mystery Illness" and pulsed RF / MW Radiation—Beatrice Golomb, MD, PhD—invited me on October 6, 2026 to participate in a study of people who experience health symptoms from RF/MW Radiation:

From golomb-lab <golomb-lab@health.ucsd.edu> Oct 6

To nc4CAMP@proton.me

Dear Nancy Henderson,

I'm so very, very sorry to hear about the challenges you've had interfacing with UC San Diego in relation to your EHS.

I'd like to forward your email to Sheena Symington if that is alright with you? She is a Canadian advocate on this issue who has worked with a number of medical centers, primarily in Canada, to help obtain accommodations so that affected patients can be successfully seen.

I'm not sure who the appropriate parties would be to contact about this at UC San Diego, but I imagine Sheena may have some thoughts. If at that point I can be of help in any way, please let me know.

By the way, we are shortly commencing a genetic study related to EHS. I hope it is okay if I forward your email to Jessica Thomaston, who will be leading that effort for our group, in case you might wish to participate.

If you are willing, perhaps you can also remind me of some of your particular sensitivities. We would very much like to pursue additional pilot work related to EHS that would benefit from having one or two people who are local.

More broadly, if you might be amenable to participating in other studies aimed at understanding and documenting the biological differences that make people with EHS more vulnerable, please let me know. It would definitely help if we had some local participants for studies that would need to take place in person.

Obviously, if we were to pursue that, we would also need to work out procedures to be sure that you were appropriately protected and accommodated.

With warmest regards,

Beatrice

Beatrice Alexandra Golomb MD, PhD
Professor of Medicine in Residence
UC San Diego Health
Department of Medicine
9500 Gilman Drive, #0995
La Jolla, CA 92093
Website: https://www.golombresearchgroup.org/